I have to give considerable credit to Beulah Wright of River John, NS for much collaborative research on this family. Two other important sources were Long, Ruth Alicia and Edna Long Davis. 1987. Langley - Long, Massachusetts - Nova Scotia, 1630 - 1987. Needham, Mass; and Calnek, W. A. and A. W. Savary, 1897, History of the County of Annapolis, and 1913, Supplement, William Briggs Ltd., Toronto. Reprinted by Mika Studio, Belleville, Ont., 1972. Nova Scotia Historical Vital Statistics are available at www.novascotiagenealogy.com. Other sources are noted throughout.

My grandmother was Hazel (Wright) Goff, a great granddaughter of Peter Long and Martha Langley.

First and Second Generations<sup>1</sup>

2. Peter Long, son of Jacob Peter Lange. Born in 1786 in Annapolis Co., NS. Peter died in Clements vale, Annapolis Co., NS, on 11 Jan 1858; he was 72.

There were several Long loyalists from U.S. to New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Peter's father was a disbanded German soldier who had fought for the British in the American revolution. Lewis Mortimer Long, Peter's grandson, referred to his lineage as son of John Henry, of Peter, of John Jacob of Prussia. The family origin was stated as "German" in early census records. Peter Long received a land grant in Clements (Lot 200 A5 Sheet 21, Lands and Forests) between the grants of Jonathan Milner Sr. and Benjamin Potter. Peter is in the 1827 census of Clements, Methodist, four sons and three daughters (5 males and 4 females).

In 1807 when Peter was 21, he first married Martha Langley, daughter of John Jr. Langely (-1822) & Beulah

Third Generation

4 Jacob Peter Lange.

John Jacob Long from Prussia was named as the father of Peter in the Chute genealogy.

John Jacob Long was listed as a tax paying resident of Clements Township under the 1791 Capitation Tax Act (Calnek pages 251, 252), and is in the 1827 census of Clements, Methodist, family of four males and two females. Jacob Long and Peter Long are the only two Long's in the 1827 census for Clements Township.

Lois Jenkins, historian, of Clementsvale, confirmed that Jacob Peter Lange received a land grant on the Hessian Line for his service to the British. He subsequently anglicized his name to Long, and was the father of Peter Long.

“Jacob Peter Long, or Lange as his name appears in a 1784 muster roll, was one of the disbanded German soldiers; he belonged to a Waldeck regiment. His early role in the story of Clements is perhaps a unique one. Since he was married when he arrived, he was entitled to 150 acres of land. (The allotment was to be 100 acres per man, plus 50 acres each for wife and children.) He was initially granted a 100-acre lot in the Hessian Line. He made a petition (called a memorial) to Governor Sir John Wentworth in 1799 concerning the additional 50 acres: The Memorial of Jacob Long, Humbly sheweth That your memorialist served during the late war in America as a rifleman in Colonel Worms [sic] Battallion of jaegers and at the peace of 1783 came with his family to this province to settle and to obtain His Majestys gracious bounty in land: That your memorialist was informed that he was intitled to one hundred and fifty acres of land, of which he first drew one hundred, viz. No.31 in the Hessian line in the Township of Clements; but this in the early settlement of the country being out of the way, your memorialist settled in the town plot of Digby, pursuing his trade as a carpenter and there had assigned him other land in the Township of Digby by the agents, viz. No.5 in the letter B which contained about fifty acres making up your memorialists complement as a disbanded soldier with a family; That your memorialist, as soon as his circumstances would permit, settled upon his first lot in the Hessian line where he has continued to this day, and has made improvements according to the utmost of his ability, to put that lot in good order, That your memorialist is now desirous of settling his lot No.5 letter B in Digby, but finds it reported vacant by the Commissioners, and also find many applicants . . who lay claim to it; That your memorialist not being named in any grant of land in the Township of Digby is hereby in Danger of losing his land, and therefore humbly prays that your Excellency & Honour will be pleased to confirm his title, if in your wisdom you shall think the same right; and your memorialist as in Duty Bound will ever pray [Signed] Peter Long Digby 1st Oct 1799. It appears as though Long may not have succeeded in acquiring title to his Digby lot, as he was still living on the Hessian Line when his application to operate a “house of entertainment – license free – in the Hessian Line, Clements” was presented to the Annapolis County Court in April 1802. These “houses of entertainment” were actually stage-coach stops along the route from Annapolis to Digby and beyond." There was a Hessian Line & a Waldeck Line, along which lots were initially granted to soldiers from the various German regiments. However, within 10 years the majority of them had left the area.”

Child:

- 2            i.            Peter Long (1786-11 Jan 1858)

Note: According to Calnek , the Beulah Winchester who married John Langley was the daughter of John Winchester and Abigail Winslow, but the dates make this impossible. Fanny Winchester Hotchkiss has Nathan's family correct until his emigration, then she relies on Calnek. Beulah, the sister of John mentioned by Hotchkiss, must be the correct wife of John Langley. This is the version stated by Ruth Alicia Long and Edna Long Davis in their Langley-Long history.

He drew up and signed two petitions which were presented to the Governor, Council and Assembly, one in 1700, the other in 1705, by the inhabitants of Muddy River requesting to be set off as a town by themselves and to be allowed to manage their own local affairs. The second of these petitions was granted, and Muddy River took the name of Brookline in November, 1705. John Winchester, Jr., filled these offices: Selectman, Surveyor in 1676-1694 and 1702, Constable in 1682-3, Tythingman, 1695-6, Commissioner, 1707, first Representative from Brookline in the General Assembly of Massachusetts from 1706 to 1710.

Jackson's History of Newton mentions two wives, Joanna and Hannah, but after careful research, Hotchkiss concludes that he had only one, Joanna Stevens, and that the Hannah mentioned by Jackson was undoubtedly his father's wife, who survived the latter about three years.

Thomas Danforth was brought to America by his father in 1634. He was admitted freeman in 1643 and elected representative in 1657. For twenty years, he held the office of "Assistant" and was Deputy Governor of Massachusetts from 1679 to 1686. On 11 May 1681, he was appointed by the General Court of Massachusetts President of the State of Maine, and he continued in that office until the arrival of Andros in 1686. He was an acknowledged leader of the popular party, and was one of those who, in 1689, signed the demand upon Gov. Andros to surrender the government. After the fall of that governor, he was again annually elected to his former offices until the grant of the new charter in 1692. He was also a judge of the Superior Court of Massachusetts from 1692 until the time of his death.

Danforth was the first treasurer of Harvard College (1650-1669), and he subsequently assisted in the arrangement and care of its finances, serving as Steward until 1682. His services to that institution were numerous and, although he was not wealthy, he bequeathed to the college three valuable leases of land, 10,000 acres, in the Town of Framingham. His interest in the College was deep and continuing, and its history speaks of him as among "the earliest, most steadfast, and faithful of its friends". Thomas inherited his father's house in 1652, N. side Kirkland St. near Oxford St. + 120 acres land, Cambridge, Mass.

William Longley and his wife Deliverance had 8 children. He was Town Clerk of Groton, Mass. in 1687 and from 1692 to 1694. About the break of day, July 27, 1694, the Town of Groton was attacked by a band of Indians. Some of them lurked about the premises of William Longley and turned his cattle out of the barnyard into a cornfield and lay in ambush. The trick had the desired effect to draw Mr. Longley and his sons, unarmed, to drive the cattle from the corn. He, his wife, and five of his eight children were slain. Of the three whom survived, Betty died of starvation. Lydia (b. Groton March 1, 1674) was sold to the French in Canada. She became a Roman Catholic sister of the Congregation de Notre Dame in Montreal, where she died July 20, 1758, aged 84. John (b. Groton, 1683), aged 12 at the time, remained with the Indians over 4 years. Had it not been for the determined effort of his relatives and the Massachusetts government, he probably would have become an Indian Chief. It has also been suggested that another daughter, Jemima, whom the Indians had tomahawked and scalped, was found alive, and that she survived many years, married and had children.

On 15 May 1672 when William was 34, he first married Lydia in Groton, Mass. Bef 1686 when William was 48, he second married Deliverance Crispe. Born in Watertown. Deliverance died on 27 Jul 1694 in Groton, Mass.

214 Robert Pond. Born ca 1616 in Groton, Suffolk, England. Robert died in Milton, Mass. Residence: America On S.S. Arabella, 1630. Religion: Freeman, Mass., 18 May, 1642.

From "Genealogical Record of Daniel Pond and his Descendants", by Edward Doubleday Harris: Robert Pond of Milton, the son of Robert and Mary of Dorchester, was made a freeman in 1642. He married Mary Bell and had several daughters.

From the Genealogical Dictionary of New England, Savage, Vol. III, p. 453: Robert Pond of Milton, son of Robert of Dorchester, born in England, admitted freeman 18 May, 1642, married Mary Ball from Bury St. Edmunds, Co. Suffolk, had Mary b. 14 Jul., 1657, Martha, 13 Apr. 1660, and another child, possibly Sarah who married Desire Clap. He died before mid-life and she married again 3 July 1663 Nicholas Allen or Ellen, outlived him, and married Daniel Henshaw.

Dr. Savage also states: A John Pond and a brother whose name is not given came to New England in 1630 with Governor Winthrop. After their arrival, Governor Winthrop wrote to his eldest son in Groton, desiring him to tell

"old Pond that both his sons are well and remember their duty". Nothing more is known of John. Robert Pond, presumably his brother, settled at Dorchester, and died in 1637. His widow married Edward Shepard of Cambridge. It is known that Robert Pond and Mary Pond had a daughter Mary, 11 years old when her mother joined the Cambridge Church, who afterward married John Blackman. Evidently the widow had other children, Jonathan and Sarah, but it is not known definitely whose children they were (because of discrepancies in ages given, perhaps a mistake.) Dr. Savage believes Daniel was the son of the first Robert also, because of the similarity of family names. Furthermore, Robert's widow Mary married Edward Shepard of Cambridge. Daniel married Abigail Shepard, a daughter of the same Edward by an earlier marriage. There is, however, no positive proof, but Daniel was probably the son of Robert Pond of Dorchester, and a descendant of the Groton family.

From, "A Genealogical Record of Samuel Pond and his Descendants", 1875, by Daniel Streater Pond: Robert of Milton, William of Dorchester and Daniel of Dedham were supposed to be the sons of Robert of Dorchester. There is nothing better than suppositions connecting them, save for a remarkable coincidence in the names of next generations. At the same time that Robert Pond of Milton was made a freeman (1642) there was one Samuel Pond who married and settled in Windsor, CT. He, too, might have been a son of Robert of Dorchester.

From the LDS, Salt Lake, UT, Robert of Dorchester had Samuel, Mary, William, Daniel, and Robert. Submitted by Ray McClellan of Blackfoot, Idaho, who listed his source as Genealogical Dictionary, Vol. 3, History of Franklin, Mass.

Future research may find the proof, though one will probably always be faced with the problem of records that simply do not survive, and doubt may always exist on some connections.

His daughters Hannah and Hester were born to his first wife, who died before he left England. Richard was one of the Conihasset partners in 1646.

From the History of Scituate, Mass., by Samuel Dean: "The Conihasset (meaning fishing promitory) Grant was sold from Merchant Adventurers of London, Eng. to a certain company, since called the 'Conihasset partners', among them of whom was Richard Sealis. These partners appointed clerks, surveyors and agents and conducted their affairs with all the efficiency of a corporate town. They laid out and maintained their own roads until 1715; they made grants to their minister, etc. Records were kept of all transactions, conveyances, etc., in beautiful order, and today fill a large volume. Their last meeting on record was 1767".

In his will, 1656, Richard Sealis termed himself a "planter".

Thomas Buckminster, the son or grandson of the Almanac maker, came to Boston in 1640. He was made a freeman in 1646 and received a land grant at Muddy River (Brookline, Mass.), where he died in 1656. He must have had an eye for picturesque beauty, based on his selection of farmland. The name of "Buckminster" first appears in 1660;
