3 Lydia Dimock. Born on 27 Aug 1748 in Mansfield, CT.

The ancestry of Lydia Dimock was provided to me by Mike Stephens, Jan. 19, 1997, who is a descendent Benoni and Lydia through their son John.

Third Generation

4 Benoni Sweet. Born on 28 Mar 1692 in Noth Kingstown, RI. Benoni died in Cornwallis, Kings Co., NS. Residence: Nova Scotia (1760).

1692 Benoni SWEET s/o Benoni and Elizabeth SWEET born in RI. He was also a bonesetter, and was the one in our line in RI who with his wife Elizabeth and their family left RI in 1760 with the New England Planters for NS, landing in Falmouth Twp, disembarking at what is now Newport Landing, Hants Co, NS. This Benoni married when he was about 50 years old. His wife Elizabeth was much younger. However, he possessed the spirit of adventure, when he, at his age, migrated with the Planters to a new country, Nova Scotia. Benoni's grant of land was Lot 39, which he shared with Edward Manchester, each receiving one half share. In 1765 Benoni and his wife Elizabeth sold this land to Mr. Henry DENSON. In 1765 Benoni and Isaac LITTLE purchased another grant of land located at Curry's Corner, near Windsor.

MIGRATION OF THE SWEET FAMILY

From New England to Nova Scotia in 1760

In 1758 Britain was engaged in the last round of conflict with the French for the possession of Nova Scotia. The necessity of making Nova Scotia a strong, loyal British colony was obvious to both the Lord of Trades and officials at Halifax. On October 12, 1758, the Governor Lawrence issued the invitation by Proclamation to the people of New England to come to Nova Scotia, and he offered them the cultivated farms left vacant by the expulsion of the French Acadians on Sept. 5, 1755.

A general meeting of the Pilgrim Families was held in Norwich Church in Connecticut, and families from Rhode Island and Mass. also attended. They were keenly interested, as their population had increased and they were faced with the problem of providing new homes and farms. However, they wanted information as to the form of government, the extent of religious freedom, and the payment of taxes.

In September 1759 a committee was appointed to be sent as agents to Nova Scotia to investigate conditions. Upon arrival they were taken by Mr. Charles Morris, a general surveyor, by boat, to the Minas Basin area. These Planters, having responsible government in the New England Colonies would not go to a country where they did not have this liberty. This had been anticipated and the first House of Assembly was established in Nova Scotia in 1758.

Another vital question was religious freedom and inquiries showed that this also would be assured to all Protestants.

The result of this visit was response from New England that more than met the expectations.

About 1,500 in all came to Nova Scotia in 1760, to occupy lands vacated by the Acadians in 1755. The move to Nova Scotia was to have been made in the autumn of 1759, but the threat of an Indian uprising delayed it until the spring of 1760. At that time agriculture was the main occupation and land was in great demand.

Many New England Planters were interested in education, and scores of their descendants have gone forth and become leaders in Education, Medicine, Business and leaders of the churches in Canada and the United States.

In common with most all of these early settlers or Planters, they possessed a fine integrity of character, they were descendants of the Puritans who migrated from England during the time of religious persecution to a land where they could worship God according to their conscience.

A large number of the Planters who came to Nova Scotia had come from England to Rhode Island on the "Mayflower". They were a friendly group, knit together by their religious faith. They were also bound together by their loyalty to their King, James of England.

Even before the "Mayflower" dropped anchor after her long voyage, those on board knew their leaders' decision to remain in New England rather than go to Virginia, as was their original destination.

Although there were very few who had college training, they brought with them the King James' version of the Holy Bible, then only a few years old. This was the best written book in the English language and no group of people can be described as uneducated who read and knew the "Holy Bible".

(The SWEET SAGA, by Belle Smiley and Iola Young, 1960)

From Duncanson, John Victor. 1983. Falmouth - A New England Township in Nova Scotia. Mika Publ. Co. Belleville, ON. "The Sweet Family of New England was founded by John Sweet of Wales who emigrated with his wife Mary and children to Salem, Mass. in 1630. John was granted land in Providence, RI in 1637. His son James Sweet (1622-1695) married in 1654 Mary Greene, dau. of John Greene, surgeon of Salisbury, England. James Sweet lived at Portsmouth and Kingstown, RI. He was the progenitor of the "celebrated natural bone setters". His son Benoni Sweet, b. 28 Mar 1662, was a Capt. in the British service and has been described as "an educated man of polished manners". He was a bonesetter and was called Dr. Sweet. He married Elizabeth, a cousin. Their son Benoni, b. 28 Mar 1692 married Isabell and resided at North Kingstown, RI. Their son Benoni, b. 7 Oct 1748 was the grantee at Falmouth, NS in 1761, 250 acres, farm Lot 39, but sold his lands in 1765 to Henry Denson; it is believed that he moved to Cornwallis, NS where a John Sweet received a grant in 1764. Early Falmouth records report that Benoni Sweet performed medical aid during the early days of the Falmouth settlement; he therefore followed the profession which several of his ancestors had served." (Note: I think John Duncanson confused the Falmouth grantee).

I received the following note from Allen Niles, July, 2020, "As for Benoni Sweet of Nova Scotia I'm not sure it's possible to know his correct line, given the burned records of N. Kingstown RI and other confusing records. One record says he was born 2 Apr 1715 the son of James and Mary (Greene) Sweet [Nova Scotia Immigrants to 1867, vol 1, p232]. James was married to Mary Abigail Sherman, not Greene! Their son Benoni was born 1715. He may be the one who married c1739 Isabel/Elizabeth Sherman b ?c1720 and is the " Benoni "Jun" & Isabel shown in

Benoni Sweet and Lydia Dimock Ancestry Report

Arnold (p 102) as having children born beginning in 1740. Note: The "Jun" could be the town clerk's way to distinguish him from his uncle Benoni born 28 Mar 1692 (son of Benoni 3 Capt/Dr). It's not clear to me which Benoni went to NS with his parents. The one born 1715 or the one born 1692 given that above Immigrant source. There is a deed of sale of the grant at Falmouth that Benoni and wife "Elizabeth" signed by mark 30 Aug 1765 (date of final payment by Henry Denson). Was this Isabel Sherman using a middle name Elizabeth or the wife of Benoni (b 1692) and his wife Mary Elizabeth (Sweet) Sweet (b c1703) dau of Samuel & Bridget Sweet?"

Note: There were two Sweet immigrants to NS, Benoni, my ancestor followed here, and another Sweet family who settled in Cornwallis, Kings Co. : Theophilus and Eleanor Sweet, and Benoni and Hannah (Rockwell) Sweet. They are referred to in A. W. Eaton's History of Kings Co., but their parentage is not given in that source.

On 16 Sep 1739 when Benoni was 47, he married Isabell/Elizabeth Sweet in North Kings Town, RI. RI Marriages.

They had the following children:

- i. Elizabeth. Born on 10 Oct 1742 in North Kingstown, RI. Married 6 Apr 1763 in Falmouth, Hants Co., NS to Moses Marsters.
- ii. Mary. Born on 25 Apr 1745 in North Kingstown, RI. On 10 Dec 1763 when Mary was 18, she married Isaac Little in Falmouth, Hants Co., NS.
- iii. Jonathan. Born in 1746 in North Kingstown, RI.
- 2 iv. Benoni (7 Oct 1748-)
- v. Nancy. Born in 1752 in North Kingstown, RI.

5 Isabell/Elizabeth.

Benoni's wife Elizabeth Sweet was identified as a "cousin" of Benoni, perhaps a first cousin, the daughter of Samuel and Bridget Sweet (Elizabeth. b. 1703, see 16.vi below).

But, Belle Smily had said that she was "much younger" than him (he was b. 1692), and most sources identify her name variably as either Elizabeth (Sherman) or Isabel (Spencer). I also have a birth record of Isabel as 1720. So I looked at Rhode Island birth records (familysearch.org) and here's what is most interesting. Benoni and Elizabeth Sweet had children b. Oct 1715, 5 Jan. 1716, 17 Aug. 1720, 29 Dec 1721, 2 Nov. 1723, 3 Jan. 1725, 21 Nov. 1727, 30 Mar 1730 and 26 Apr 1733, all male, and all b. North Kingstown. Then there is a marriage record for Benoni Sweet and Isabel, 16 Sep. 1739. Then there are birth records for children of Benoni and Isabel, 10 Jun 1740 (son), 10 Oct 1742 (Elizabeth), 20 Apr 1745 (son), 7 Oct 1748 (Benoni), 3 Oct 1752 (son). So there is much confusion between Benoni and Elizabeth b. 1704 and Benoni and Isabel b. 1720. The latter birth year is much more in line with the ages of the children identified in the Nova Scotia records. If this is the case, then Isabel is the mother of Benoni Sweet (#2) rather than Elizabeth.

Isabell was born in North Kings Town, RI and died in Cornwallis, Kings Co., NS.

6 Shubael Dimock. Born on 27 May 1708 in Mansfield, CT. Shubael died in Newport, NS, on 27 May 1781; he was 73. Buried in Scotch Village, NS. Residence: Mansfield, CT, Falmouth, NS (1761).

Shubael Dimock was a lay preacher in Connecticut. He was a deacon of the Congregational Church, but joined the separatist group. He suffered persecution and served a jail sentence for his religious practices (preaching without a license). He was a grantee of 500 acres in Falmouth Township, NS, on the west side of the Avon River, with the Planter migration of 1760-61. He also received an additional 250 acres. Later, in 1765, he leased his Falmouth lands and joined his son Daniel on the east side at Newport (their farm being in the area now known as Scotch Village). He became persuaded by the evangelical preaching of the Rev. Henry Alline and joined the New Light Church at Falmouth founded by Alline. In 1776, he attended the ordination of Alline. His son Daniel became ordained in the Baptist Church, and together they established one of the first Baptist communities at Newport. Shubael's grandson Rev. Joseph Dimock, son of Rev. Daniel, was the first native born Nova Scotian to be ordained as a Baptist minister.

See biography, ancestry and family in J.V. Duncanson, 1985, Newport, NS - A Rhode Island Township. Belleville, ON, Mika Publ. Co., and also briefly in Duncanson's history of Falmouth, as above.

On 11 Dec 1731 when Shubael was 23, he first married Priscilla Hovey, daughter of James Hovey (1674-1765) & Deborah Barlow (1676-15 May 1749), in Mansfield, CT. Born on 11 Dec 1708 in Malden, MA. Priscilla died in Mansfield, CT, on 14 Mar 1747; she was 38.

They had the following children:

- i. Asa (Twin). Born on 14 Aug 1732 in Mansfield, CT. Asa died in Windsor, NS, in 1793; he was 60.
Asa married Deborah Cooney.
- ii. Anne (Twin). Born on 14 Aug 1732 in Mansfield, CT. Anne died in Mansfield, CT, on 18 Jul 1749; she was 16.
- iii. Abigail. Born on 16 Jul 1734 in Mansfield, CT.
- iv. Rev. Daniel. Born on 24 Sep 1736 in Mansfield, CT. Rev. Daniel died in Newport, NS, on 5 Apr 1805; he was 68.
On 5 Nov 1767 when Rev. Daniel was 31, he married Deborah Bailey, daughter of Joseph Bailey & Hannah Sanford (20 Sep 1725-).
- v. Abigail. Born on 23 Aug 1742 in Mansfield, CT.
Abigail married Amos Marsh.

On 10 Nov 1747 when Shubael was 39, he second married Eunice Marsh, daughter of James Marsh (1688-6 Apr 1749) & Hannah Shephard (13 Nov 1695-22 Apr 1775), in Mansfield, CT. Born on 14 Apr 1726 in Plainfield, Windham, CT. Eunice died in Nova Scotia, bef 1769; she was 42.

They had the following children:

- 3
 - i. Lydia (27 Aug 1748-)
 - ii. Eunice. Born on 27 Jun 1751 in Mansfield, CT.
 - iii. Shubael. Born on 24 Mar 1753 in Mansfield, CT. Shubael died in Newport, NS, on 14 Jul 1834; he was 81. Buried in Scotch Village.
Represented Hants County in the provincial legislature 1799-1820.

Shubael married Susan Macumber.
 - iv. Eunice. Born on 1 Jun 1755.
Eunice first married Hugh Smith.
Eunice second married John Marsters.
 - v. Tryphena.
 - vi. Tryphosa.
Tryphosa married Thomas Baker.

On 22 Oct 1768 when Shubael was 60, he third married Sarah (Knowlton) Marsters, daughter of Robert Knowlton, in Falmouth, NS, widow of Abraham Marsters. Residence: Salem, MA, Falmouth, NS.

They had the following children:

- i. Timothy. Born in 1769. Timothy died in Rawdon, NS, on 21 Jan 1838; he was 69. Timothy married Mary Parker.
- ii. Hannah. Hannah died bef 1797.

7 Eunice Marsh. Born on 14 Apr 1726 in Plainfield, Windham, CT. Eunice died in Nova Scotia, bef 1769; she was 42.

Fourth Generation

8 Benoni Sweet Capt. Dr. Born on 28 Mar 1663 in North Kingstown, RI. Benoni died in North Kingstown, RI, on 19 Jul 1751; he was 88. Occupation: Bone Setter, "Educated Man of Polished Manners".

According to Duncanson, Benoni Sweet was a Captain in the British service and has been described as "an educated man of polished manners". He was a bone setter and was called Dr. Sweet.

Benoni inherited the gift of bonesetting and performed some remarkable operations. He practiced extensively in restoring dislocations.

"Died, Capt. Benoni Sweet of North Kingston, in the 90th year of his age. Dr. MacSparran preached his funeral sermon, and buried him in the cemetery of his ancestors."

Abt 1686 when Benoni was 22, he married Elizabeth Manchester in North Kingstown, RI.

They had the following children:

- i. James. Born on 28 May 1687 in North Kingstown, RI. James died on 19 Jul 1751; he was 64. James' spouse has been identified as Anne Weeton, or as Mary Abigail Sherman.
- ii. Margaret. Born on 22 Sep 1690 in North Kingstown, RI. Margaret died in North Kingstown, RI, on 27 Oct 1727; she was 37. Margaret married John Albro.
- 4 iii. Benoni (28 Mar 1692-)

- v. Elizabeth. Born on 22 Feb 1700 in North Kingstown, RI. On 22 Nov 1722 when Elizabeth was 22, she married Benjamin Congdon in North Kingstown, RI. Born on 20 Oct 1702. Benjamin died in 1777; he was 74. Their daughter Margaret was born on 7 Nov 1727 in North Kingstown, Rhode Island. Margaret died in Windsor, NS, in 1777. She married John Sweet (b. 7 Dec 1724), the son of John Sweet and Lydia Whalley and great grandson of John Sweet and Elizabeth Jeffrey (see #32.i).
- vi. Thomas. Born on 12 Aug 1703 in North Kingstown, RI. Died 1763. On 11 Apr 1728 when Thomas was 24, he married Tabitha Bentley.

9 Elizabeth Manchester. Born abt 1668 in North Kingstown, RI. Elizabeth died in North Kingstown, RI, on 27 Oct 1727; she was 59.

There is some confusion around the identity of Elizabeth. It appears likely that she is Elizabeth Manchester, although she has also been identified as Elizabeth Sweet, a cousin. This may refer to the wife of Benoni Jr.

Elizabeth Manchester, b. 1667, d/o Thomas Manchester and Margaret Wood. Thomas Manchester was born ca1620, the son of Peleg Manchester, probably in Yorkshire, England and died 1691 in Portsmouth, Newport, Rhode Island. He married Margaret Wood in 1650 in Portsmouth, Newport, Rhode Island. She was the daughter of John Wood and Margaret Carter. She died in 1693 in Portsmouth, Newport, RI. They had 9 children, Thomas, b. ca1650 d.1718, George, b. ca1650, William, b. 1654 (m. Mary Cook), John, b. 1656, George, b. 1659, Stephen, b. 1661 (m. Eliz. Woddell), Job, b. 1663, Mary, b. 1665, Elizabeth, b. 1667.

Duncanson stated that Benoni Sr. married his cousin Elizabeth. According to "The Sweet Saga", Elizabeth was a daughter of Benoni's cousin Samuel, son of John.

In Savage's Dictionary:

“Benoni SWEET, son of James, had James b. 1688; Margaret, b 1690; Benoni, b1692; Mary, b 1696; Elizabeth, b 1700 and Thomas, b 1703. Perhaps all or perhaps only last two by wife Elizabeth. (No last name)” - This last statement is also a curious one!

16 James Sweet Dr. Born on 18 Jun 1622 in Devonshire, England. James died in Ridge Hill, Kingstown, RI, on 18 Jun 1698; he was 76. Occupation: Natural Bone Setter. Residence: Salem, MA (1631), Warwick, Portsmouth, RI.

Children are listed, with birth dates, in Austin. He refers to James as a State Commissioner, 1653, 1658, 1659, a Freeman 1655, and having served on a Jury in 1666. He also describes several land transactions between 1660 and 1695. According to Duncanson, James lived at Portsmouth and Kingstown, RI. Children are listed by Duncanson.

James Sweet was the progenitor of the "celebrated natural bone setters". Job, the son of his son James, was known as the "Great Bonesetter", and was the most famous of all the bonesetter Sweet's.

THE BONESETTER SWEETS

There is a tradition in the Rhode Island branch of the Sweet family, that their ancestors, including James, the immigrant, had long been gifted by nature with the faculty of setting dislocated and broken bones. The inherited ability to set bones was not regarded by the Sweets as a vocation, but rather as an avocation. They were artisans by calling -stonemasons, blacksmiths, wheelwrights, carpenters. Bonesetting was a side-line.

The remarkable part of this family was the fact that they never exploited their natural ability. Not one of them sought fame or fortune through this medium. The Sweets did not deem this a magical thing, but more of an inherited knowledge acquired from their elders. They handled fractures, sprains and dislocations with a skill to be envied by an orthopedic physician. They were known to use massaging with ointments and herbs also. Instances naming local doctors who failed to relieve suffering that later was relieved by one of the Sweets have become folklore.

Benoni, the son of James the immigrant, and Benoni's son, James (the father of Job Sweet), both possessed this natural gift. Benoni was called "Dr. Sweet", but practiced only in restoring dislocations. He was a regular communicant of the historic Narragansett Church and officiated as a vestryman until his death in 1751. He had been a captain in the British service and was described as a man of education and polished manners. He is referred to as the first of a long line of bone-setters. Benoni's grandson, Job Sweet, was known as the "GREAT BONESETTER".

Job Sweet was born in 1724 and married Jemima Sherman in 1750. It is related that during the Revolutionary War, Job Sweet was called to Newport, R.I., to set the dislocated bones of the French officers, an operation which their army surgeons were unable to perform.

After the Revolution, he was invited to New York by Colonel Aaron Burr to restore the dislocated hip of his daughter, Theodosia. This operation had baffled the skill of the city doctors.

Job went to New York by packet boat and was met by Colonel Burr's carriage. He told afterward how he felt at being shut up in the closed carriage. The setting of the bone was to be performed the next day at 10 a.m., when other surgeons would be present. But Dr. Sweet meant to avoid their presence. In the evening he solicited an interview with the family and the girl. Theodosia was in great pain, but Job talked soothingly to her and explained what he was to do. He asked if she would permit him to put his hand on her hip. She consented and in a few minutes he had reset the bone. Then he told her to walk about the room, which, to the surprise of Theodosia and her father, she could do. When the medical team arrived the next morning, Job was well on his way back to Rhode Island.

Spiritualists and clairvoyants will understand the philosophy in accordance with the laws of which Dr. Sweet avoided the presence of learned surgeons while he performed his seemingly miraculous cures. Totally unlearned in surgery, Dr. Job seldom, if ever, failed in bone restoring operations.

A skeptical young sprig sent for the doctor to reset his elbow, which he said had been dislocated. The old man found his patient, apparently in great pain, with his bandaged arm in a sling. The doctor had scarcely touched the elbow before he discovered that the fellow was tricking him. The doctor left and was soon overtaken on his way by a messenger, who implored the doctor to return and restore the young man's elbow joint which had been really dislocated by the doctor as a punishment for deceit.

On one occasion Dr. Job was being shown through an anatomical hall in Boston. In glancing at a human specimen, the old man remarked that he had never seen a "tominy" before, but there was a little bone put in wrong side up in the foot of the one before him. This was controverted by his learned friend who was finally forced to admit the correctness of the natural bonesetter's assertion, after permitting him to change the position of the bone in question.

Dr. Job's son, Jonathan (1765-1820) and his son, Job, were blacksmiths. The son, Job, commenced setting bones after the death of his father (Jonathan) and achieved great renown. Thomas Hazard wrote that he had been present many times when Jonathan restored dislocated and broken bones among the employees of his father's family. Once when Jonathan was setting the thigh of a coloured boy, the writer asked him to tell how he could do it. Jonathan answered that he did not know himself, but he was just as certain of the position of all the bones he worked on as if he could see them with his naked eye.

When called from the work of blacksmithing, as they often were, to restore shattered and dislocated limbs, the healing of which would have conferred world renown on any regularly bred surgeon, all either one ever asked for was the "hindrance", charge enough to pay for the time lost in shoeing the horse or other work. The same writer told of shattered bones and cases of compound fractures.

A lawyer friend of Daniel Webster, named Warner, had a leg so aggravated by maltreatment that long care was necessary, so he came to board with the doctor until he was cured. Warner was so impressed that he persuaded the doctor (Job, the younger blacksmith) to move to Boston where there would be unlimited field for his gift. But he did not long survive the change and died in 1827.

Besides bonesetting, the Sweet family possessed, in a remarkable degree, another faculty, scarcely less wonderful - that of compounding linaments or washes from the roots and barks that were to be found in almost any locality. Herbs, ointments, and skunk grease were used in massaging. These were used to prevent infection and to help in the healing. It is said that no two ever practiced in one place, and none ever made any effort to win fame or wealth from the gift.

Another of these natural bonesetters was Edward Harvey of South Kingston, whose mother was Frances Sweet. He was a crossing tender who plied his trade as late as 1917. It is told that a youngster was struck on the leg by a baseball, which resulted in a large painful swelling on his lower leg. After three months of care by the most skilled of local doctors, the boy was still in the same condition. One of the doctors recommended that he consult "Bunk" Harvey, but not to tell of the referral. Forty years later the boy gave the following account of the treatment:

"Bunk ran his hand up the front of my leg from the ankle to the knee, then with one quick snap of his thumb he twisted the bunch on my leg. It hurt like hell for a minute, then the pain disappeared and the lump was gone. Bunk told me that two cords had become twisted, one on top of the other. That leg hasn't bothered me since".

The last of these bonesetters, bearing the Sweet name in South County, was Dr. Benoni Sweet, son of William and Martha (Tourgee) Sweet, who was born in 1840, and lived in Wakefield, R.I. He was a stonemason and on the death of his brother, George, he assumed the family profession of bonesetting. The Rhode Island Medical Society thought enough of Dr. Benoni and his ability to present him with a certificate to practice medicine in Rhode Island. He was unusually successful in his practice and on the very day he died, April 21, 1922, he reduced the fracture of a boy's wrist.

In late years the Sweets have gone on to obtain Medical Degrees. One of these, Dr. John Sweet (1884-1950) was a practicing physician in Newport, Rhode Island. He is quoted in an article by P.P. Sweet in the Connecticut Medical Journal for 1946. "It is my belief that the reputation of the Sweet family for skill in setting bones was often deserved". However, he did not credit the natural gift for bonesetting but believed from early childhood they had seen their father operating and that the principles of bonesetting were explained to them in careful detail.

This training may well have been for the exterior treatment with herbs and linaments, but could only supplement the spiritual gift of inner sight, which made those seemingly miraculous cures possible. The Sweets have always been receptive to humane and spiritual values, and to this day are known to be mild and gentle in disposition. This quality was memorialized in the original bestowal of the name, centuries ago, to "John, the Sweet" in recognition of his loving disposition. Thus, the Sweets would be worthy recipients of such a useful spiritual gift.

The mechanical principles which brought success to the Sweets are the same which are found scientifically sound today.

Dr. John Sweet's statement bears out the modernization and conversion of the natural bonesetting Sweets into licensed and reputable physicians, as he became a member of the American Board of Orthopedic Surgeons, thus combining his inherent ability with professional knowledge. So, in north, south, east or west, any orthopedic surgeon named Sweet may well be a descendant of that unusual and fascinating clan of "Bonesetter Sweets", of South County, Rhode Island.

18 Thomas Manchester. Born ca 1620 in Yorkshire, England. Thomas died in Portsmouth, RI, on 9 Jul 1691; he was 71.

No English ancestry has been satisfactorily established. It seems to be rather generally accepted that Thomas Manchester came from Yorkshire. It is suggested that he was the son of Henry de Mancestre, grandson of Hugo, Lord of Mancestre, of County Warwick. It appears to be pure guesswork and noted only as interesting speculation. Thomas Manchester was born in England about 1620, on record in Quinnipiac, now New Haven, CT in 1639. It is surmised that he may have been of a company of settlers from Yorkshire, England who came to America in October 1638 with the famous non-conformist minister Ezekiel Rogers. He removed to Portsmouth, RI before 1642 and on 25 Feb. 1642 he was chosen to serve on the next jury. He served as town sergeant from 1674 until his death. He was a considerable landowner, owning in addition to his "mansion and lands in Portsmouth", a portion of Quononoquett Island and Dutch Island.

Coming to America - the first 50 years

When John and his wife, Mary first arrived in Salem, they bought land near where present day Norman Street is now located. This land was on the ocean and was called Sweet's Cove, and in later years Knocker's Hollow. There was a creek which ran to the ocean on the property and the street adjacent was named Creek Street. This street was located behind the present day post office, where the creek was filled in about 1829. John Sweet was a follower of Roger Williams, who believed the land should be bought from the Indians, and not taken from them by grant of the King. In 1635 Rev. Hugh Peters arrived from England to be the successor of Roger Williams as pastor of the First Church. John, who was known as "Isaac", died before June 6, 1637. Records in the original "Salem Waste Book" records the last mention of John on March 15, 1637. The next is Widow Sweet on June 19, 1637. At a town meeting during December 1637, in the handwriting of Roger Williams, John "Isaac" Sweet's widow Mary, with four people in the family, was given three acres of land, when new deeds were drawn. In a letter dated July 1, 1639, the Rev. Hugh Peters wrote he had placed The Great Censure on John Sweet's widow Mrs. Holliman. Mary had remarried to Ezekiel Holliman, another follower of Roger Williams, at Providence, Rhode Island. Ezekiel became a Baptist preacher and was one of those who had first baptized Roger Williams.

John Sweet, son of John "Isaac", was found guilty by a Grand jury and fined five pounds on June 6, 1637 for killing a wolf dog belonging to Governor Endicott, while it was in the governor's yard, and his fine was remitted to him September 6, 1638. Also in 1638 he was one of those given land by Roger Williams at Providence, Rhode Island. It is believed that he was born prior to 1610. Once again, in the year 1648 he had to appear in court, according to the summons dated August 24, to answer charges that he and his brother, James Sweet gave a false military alarm in Providence, and that James Sweet beat the drum while John Sweet shot off a gun or two. Early town records Vol. 15, Page 16 - 17 & Town Paper 014 as well as Bartlett RI Colony Records, Vol 1, Page 154 give accounts of this event. The outcome of the court case was not recorded. About this time he married Elizabeth Jefferies. On June 18, 1649 he was quoted by one man, according to records of the times, as a frequent visitor at the home of Roger Williams. On January 23, 1649 John Sweet signed a statement that he had moved to Warwick. On May 5, 1651 he was chosen to be The Commissioner to represent Warwick in the General Assembly, and that same year his sister, Meribah, who her stepfather had renamed Renewed, was married to John Geready. On April 24, 1652 he was chosen to be sergeant at the town meeting and he held that office for one year until April 19, 1653. On June 17, 1662 James and John Sweet and several others, petitioned the court to allow them to purchase from the natives and true owners, a tract of land of four thousand acres, according to the Records of The Colony of RI & Providence Plantations in NE, Vol 1, Pages 483 - 484. In 1675 John Sweet's Grist Mill at Potowomet was burned during King Philip's War and he moved, first to Warwick and then to Newport to escape the Indians. He died while still at Newport, Rhode Island in 1677, before he could return to his mill at Potowomet. His will was then probated on June 28, 1677 in Newport, RI.

John Swett, (the name was changed from Sweet by the poor spelling of a town clerk) was admitted to the freedom of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, May 18, 1642 and was one of the grantees of Newbury, as early as December 7, 1642. That he was a cousin of John Sweet was made quite evident by his grandson, Joseph who gave a silver goblet which bore the same coat of arms as that which is carved in stone over the gateway of Traine, to the First Church in Marblehead, Massachusetts, after the minister Rev. Bernard adopted him.

[only three] CHILDREN...

JOHN, b. say 1628; m. by about 1655 Elizabeth _____ ...

JAMES, b. say 1630; m. by 1655 Mary Greene...

RENEWED, b. say 1632; m. by about 1652 John Gereardy...

Hence the next generations should be considered as tentative only.

Abt 1628 when John was 49, he married Mary Westcott.

They had the following children:

- i. John. Born in 1620 in Devonshire, England. John died in North Kingston, Warwick, RI, on 16 Jul 1677; he was 57. Occupation: Commissioner (1660), Grist Mill, Potowomut, Naragansett Co. Residence: Salem, MA (1630), Warwick, Newport, RI. In 1653/1654 when John was 33, he married Elizabeth Jeffrey. Born in 1629. Elizabeth died aft 1684; she was 55. John and Elizabeth had eight children.
- 16 ii. James Dr. (1622-1698)
- iii. Meribah (Renewed). Born in 1625. Meribah (Renewed) died aft 1681; she was 56. Savage says Meribah (Duncanson says Marabel), changed to Renewed by Rev. Ezekiel Holliman before she married. Holliman was Mary Periam's second husband. Meribah (Renewed) married John Gereardy. John died aft 1681.
- iv. Abigail (b. 1633, Salem, Mass., died in England). Married George Baldwin in Warwick, RI. Lived in Gravesend, New York – first divorce in New Netherlands due to an affair with Enim Benham. Married Thomas Bradley and removed to England.

33 Mary Westcott. Born abt 1605 in Devonshire, England. Mary died in Warwick, RI, on 31 Jul 1681; she was 76.

Mary Westcott was likely the daughter of Guy Westcott b. Apr 1506, Marwood Parish, Debnvashire, and Mary Stukely.

She has also been identified as Mary Periam, daughter of John Piriam (b. 1555, Devonshire, son of William Periam, Knight And Lord Chief Baron Of The Exchequer; William also had a daughter Mary who married Sir William Pole. Devonshire) and Margaret Howe (b. 1560, daughter of Robert Howe, b. 1525). However, John Sweet's grandmother was also Mary Periam Sweet, so this may be the source of the confusion.

34 John Greene Dr. Born in 1597 in Bowridge Hall, Gillingham, Dorset Co. John died in Warwick, RI, in 1658; he was 61. Occupation: Surgeon. Residence: Salisbury, Wilts. Co., Eng., Warwick, RI.

Arrived in Boston, MA 3 Jun 1635, aboard the "James", departing Southampton, England, April 6.

On 4 Nov 1619 when John was 22, he married Joan Tattersall.

They had the following children:

- i. John (1620-1708)
- ii. Peter (1622-1659)
- iii. Richard (1623-)
- iv. James (1626-1698)
- v. Thomas (1628-1717)

Swete/Sweet Family of England

Submitted by Bob Ellsworth

Copied from Sweet GenForum Dated: 9/6/98

John Swete of Upton in South Mylton (Milton) was born about the year 1512. In the year 1530, John Swete married Johane Scoos, who was the daughter of John Scoos, lord of the Manor of Traine, who had died August 5, 1520 and their son John was the sole inheritor, through his mother, Johane, of Traine in the ancient town of Modbury, in Devonshire, twelve miles east of Plymouth. Modbury means fortification where meetings are held, and the town has been under that name since 1086. Traine, formerly called De Arberibus is an ancient manor house, which bordered Oldaport, a farm in the south-west part of the parish, anciently belonging to the De La Ports and afterwards the Hele family. On this farm, upon a tongue of elevated land, on the east side of the river Erme, where the stream spreads into an estuary, are the foundations of an ancient fort, the outer walls of which may still be distinctly traced, four to five feet in thickness, and enclosing about twenty-nine acres. When excavating about two hundred years ago, on the south and north-west sides, the foundations of two round towers were found, and also two openings in the wall nine feet wide.

John Swete, and son John Swete, born in 1531, inherited Traine in 1550, at the time when his cousin, Richard Swete, was the bailiff of Exter. John married Mary Periam, who was the daughter of John Periam, Mayor of Exter about 1555. They had three sons, John, Adrian and Robert. Their first son John, born in 1557, became a Roman Catholic priest, who was later arrested and imprisoned for continuing religious services in secret, after Henry VIII banned Roman Catholics from England. He was later freed and lived the rest of his life in France. Adrian, the second son of John and Mary Swete, was born in 1559 and married Judith Mayne. They had three sons and four daughters. Maine Sweet, their first son, married Judith Hele, daughter of Sir Thomas Hele, and inherited Traine in 1647. They had three daughters and when Maine died in 1683, the estate was passed to his brother, Adrian II and remained thereafter in his descendants control until about 1830, when it was purchased by John Andrew, a member of the third generation of the Andrew family to be caretakers of Traine. Will Rogers, a descendent of John Andrew, built a new house nearby he also called Traine. Old Traine passes out of the Swete family entirely in 1853, when it became a large farm house, and when the roof began to fall in, it was left empty for some time. Later it was fully restored and Mr. and Mrs. Rogers moved back there from New Traine which had been built across from the entrance to Old Traine. As of 1995 Old Traine and New Train still stand opposite one another, near the crest of a hill, on one of the streets composing the crossroads at Modbury center. The front of Old Traine has a massive doorway in the high stone walls which leads on a part for over a hundred yards on a wide cobblestone entrance to the main courtyard, which is also fully cobblestoned. The manor house is also built of stone, and faces the courtyard on three sides, surrounded by extensive lands of the estate which consists of rolling green pasture fields and hills.

Adrian Swete gave a large silver flagon to the city of Plymouth which is now in the Plymouth City Museum, along with a beautiful chalice cup, according to the writings of the former vicar of the Modbury Church of England, Mr. Leslie Hutchings. He was also the local historian, and claimed some members of the Swete family were buried underneath the floor of the Modbury Church. Robert Sweet, son of John, was born about 1561 and married Johanna Rainham on May 7, 1578 at Rainham, in Essex, and they had a son John Sweet who was born in 1579 in Devonshire, at Modbury, probably at Traine. He lived at Traine and probably married Mary Wescott. This John Sweet was the immigrant ancestor who came to America in December of the year 1630, aboard the ship Lyon, with his wife, two sons, John and James, and his daughter, Meribah, they sailed with Roger Williams and his family, bringing much needed supplies to Salem, Massachusetts Bay Colony.
